Known by the Company We Keep

One of the guidelines parents often seek to instill within their children is to “choose your friends wisely.” They know this is important because of how much influence people have on one another. Associating with individuals of strong moral character who demonstrate such qualities as compassion, self-discipline, respect, and Christian commitment has a positive impact. In one sense, we are “known by the company we keep.”

This can be said of universities as well, and we take seriously the relationships that we establish. Hope International University is regionally accredited by the Western Association of Colleges and Schools, the organization that provides oversight for all major universities and colleges in this part of the United States. Shortly after becoming president, I asked our faculty to consider developing a relationship with another very fine accrediting body, The Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE). This is the organization that has historically accredited only Bible Colleges. However, a recent change in scope opened the door for accreditation of ministry and Bible programs within regionally accredited universities at the undergraduate and graduate levels. We decided to proceed with our application to the ABHE and recently they completed their review of our programs. We anticipate an affirmative decision at their annual meeting in February, in which case Hope would be the first school to receive this accreditation under their new guidelines. Keeping company with ABHE schools will be a very positive experience for us and we look forward to a long friendship.

A university is also known by its alumni. In the past two issues, of the Inside Hope magazine we focused first on alumni ministers then missionaries who are serving the Lord. In this issue, we want to draw your attention to just a few of the many hundreds of Hope graduates who are impacting the world for Christ in a variety of other careers. Their stories are reflective of the kind of character and dedication I have observed in our current students as well.

And, certainly we are “known by the company we keep” through our constituents who provide the financial base to help us achieve “our mission of empowering servant-leaders to serve the church and impact the world for Christ.” “We are grateful for the churches that have faithfully supported the University over the years and for those who most recently have added the school to their general budgets.” Our core values include a commitment to the principles of the Restoration Movement and we are here to serve those congregations that share this perspective and to provide learning opportunities to students who seek a Christ-centered education.

Hope International University was founded in 1928 as Pacific Bible Seminary and has since grown to three schools - Pacific Christian College, School of Graduate Studies, and School of Professional Studies - all with the mission of empowering students through Christian higher education to serve the Church and impact the world for Christ.

Accreditation for Church Ministry Programs

Hope International University is one of two “pilot schools” that are the first in seeking program accreditation with the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE), as it seeks accreditation for its Ministry Degree programs.

Hope shares many values with ABHE, including a commitment to equipping students for Christian leadership, grounding them in God’s Word and encouraging their spiritual formation.

For many years Pacific Christian College, now Hope, was a member of the American Association of Bible Colleges, AABC, which is now ABHE. As Hope grew in academic programs and established a graduate program, it grew beyond the scope of AABC’s program evaluation which was designed primarily for Bible Colleges with a limited curriculum.

ABHE has now voted to expand its scope to include both graduate education and programmatic accreditation. This opens the door for Hope and other Christian universities to partner with like-minded Christian and Bible Colleges.

Dr. Derry in Korea

President Derry and his wife Jane recently returned from Korea, where he was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Theology degree from Seoul Christian University, one of Hope’s sister schools in South Korea. The trip also included preaching engagements at Seoul Christian Church and Dongseo University in Busan, another school with which Hope has an exchange student relationship. Last school year, Dr. Derry was one of two keynote speakers for a University Presidents Colloquium in Korea on the topic of “Global Society and the Changing Nature of Higher Education.” The conference included approximately 50 presidents invited from 15 different countries as part of a 50th anniversary celebration at Keimyung University in Daegu, Korea. President Derry stated, “The schools with which we have developed relationships are among the top universities in Korea and the students who study on our campus are committed to educational excellence.”

Hope has established cooperative programs with these and other universities in Korea to provide opportunities for students to spend one semester or more studying in the United States. The cross-cultural experience is beneficial to both schools and creates greater understanding and appreciation of the differences in the respective countries. Similar arrangements are being developed with schools in Vietnam and China. Hope is fortunate to have the opportunity to offer Christian higher education to these students who will become leaders in their chosen careers.

Enrollment

We are often asked, “What is the enrollment at Hope International University?” During the 2004-05 school year, the official report submitted to the Department of Education was 1770 students. This is an unduplicated headcount, meaning that is how many different students were enrolled for at least one class during the year. Approximately 80% are undergraduate students. In addition, we had over 300 students around the world enrolled in non-credit church leadership certificate programs.

Hope News

Partnerships Established

While the majority of Hope's students are from the United States, the University is in a position to develop relationships that open doors around the world. In recent months, we have entered into special agreements with some outstanding universities in other countries and with missionary organizations that are in need of the educational opportunities available through Hope. Some of these arrangements allow students to complete a portion of their degree at both schools, while others establish a relationship that allows the student to continue work with an agency while obtaining a degree.

The programs involved range from English as a Second Language (ESL) instruction in the Institute for International Studies to graduate degrees that can be completed online from anywhere in the world. In addition to the many existing agreements, recent partnerships have been entered into with the following schools and mission organizations:

- Christian Missionary Fellowship
- Church Resource Missions
- Christian World Missions
- Dongseo University in Seoul, Korea
- Hanoi University of Business & Management in Vietnam
- Seoul Christian University
- Calvary Chapel Education Association
- Christian Educators Association International
- Reasons to Believe/Reasons Institute
- STADIA/Church Coaching Solutions

Hope Student to Become Easter Seals Ambassador

Joy Durkee, an undergraduate student at Hope International University's Pacific Christian College, has been appointed an official 2005 Easter Seals Ambassador. Durkee, who has lived with a condition known as Spina Bifida, has been attending Easter Seals Camps for 12 years.

According to the Spina Bifida Association, an estimated 70,000 people in the United States are currently living with SB, the most common permanently disabling birth defect.

On Friday, September 16, the Brookstone Company was on campus to interview Durkee. Brookstone is producing a video training tool that will enable their employees to better serve and understand patrons with disabilities.

Minister's Conference

On Tuesday, October 11, 2005, Hope International University hosted the second annual gathering of Christian Churches and Churches of Christ ministers from all over Southern California. The theme for the day was "Iron Sharpening Iron" and approximately 120 ministers gathered for a day of fellowship, encouragement and sharpening of their leadership skills. Attendees were able to join in several round table discussions that provided them with new resources that they could take with them to help in doing God's work in their own individual churches. Rick Atchley, Senior Pastor of Richland Church of Christ, was the featured speaker and challenged everyone present to take the vision that God placed in their hearts and to move forward in their ministries.

Pepperdine University will host the third annual gathering next year on the Malibu campus.

The success of "Iron Sharpening Iron" was captured in these comments made by two Hope graduates who attended:

"Iron Sharpening Iron was a day to recharge my batteries, restore my passion and renew my relationships. I was once again pleased with the on-target discussions and the commercial-free day to get together with other pastors who have a heart to reach and teach the lost in our local communities. Many thanks to all who prepared and provided for this gathering. I already look forward to doing this again and again and again!" Mark Schoch (BS '03)

"Iron Sharpening Iron was refreshing, informative and encouraging. The atmosphere was relaxed and friendly, the perfect opportunity to catch up with old friends and meet pastors from all over Southern California. The round table discussions provided an opportunity to gain fresh insight on topics that apply to my ministry situation. The speaker, Rick Atchley, inspired us all to move forward with the vision for ministry that God has placed in our hearts. Sign me up for the next one!" Dave Smith (BA '84, MA '86)

Commencement

Speaker for the May 2005 Commencement Dr. David Matson

In the fall semester of 2004, Dr. Matson joined the faculty of Hope International University as Associate Professor of Biblical Studies.

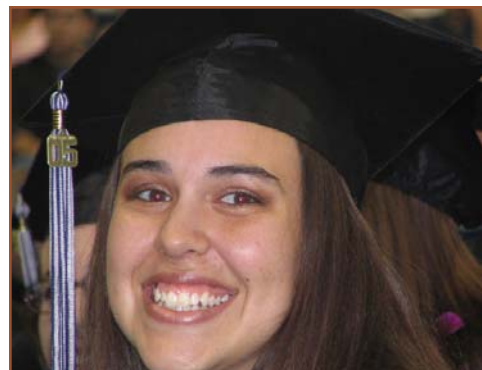

Prior to his appointment to the faculty, he was the Senior Minister of the Westwood Hills Christian Church in Los Angeles (1999-2003). From 1995-1999 he served as an Assistant Professor of Bible at Milligan College in Johnson City, Tennessee.

Matson is a 1981 graduate of Pacific Christian College with a Church Growth/Preaching major. He has a Master of Arts degree in Religion from Pepperdine University and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in Religion from Baylor University.

Matson is well liked and respected by the students, even though he is often subject to self-described “outbursts of enthusiasm” in the classroom.

One of the most important days in a person's life is that of Commencement. It is a time of celebration for the completion of a goal and appreciation for the opportunity to prepare for the life that lies ahead. During the 2004-2005 academic year, Hope awarded 230 academic degrees. The leading number of graduates from Pacific Christian College came from the Church Ministry department, followed by the Social/Behavioral Sciences department, the Education department, and the Business department. The School of Graduate Studies had graduates equally divided between the Ministry, Education, and Psychology/Marriage & Family Therapy departments with graduates from the Business department close behind. In the School of Professional Studies, the Human Development program boasted the majority of graduates.

Celebrate Hope Dinner 2005

The Celebrate Hope Annual Dinner, was held on October 7, 2005, to a sold-out ballroom at the Disneyland Hotel. EKKLESIA alumni thrilled the crowd with their performance, and each EKKLESIA member personally shared how the University has impacted their lives and prepared them for ministry. Current PCC student Angela Worsham spoke about how grateful she is for the support of those who have invested in Hope and the tremendous Christian education she is receiving.

Colonel Oliver North was the keynote speaker for the event. North, who is the host of War Stories on FOX News Channel and a war correspondent for Fox News Network, shared the importance of employing prayer to combat terrorism in our world today. In addition, he stressed that Americans should actively model living life as it should be lived, which is the way of Christ. North's examples of those in the military who were not ashamed to share the Gospel in the face of extreme danger were extremely compelling. He praised Hope for educating students to go into the world with a servant heart and the skills and desire to win people for Christ.

North concluded his address by stressing the importance of supporting Christian higher education. He then committed a gift of $1,000 to the University for scholarships and challenged others to match his gift. At the time of this writing, more than $94,000 in gifts and pledges has been raised for scholarships as a result of the Dinner.

Pat Soderquist Awarded "Spirit of Hope"

This year's "Spirit of Hope" Award was given to Mrs. Pat Soderquist. This award is given annually at the Celebrate Hope dinner to those who demonstrate exemplary character, integrity, concern for others, the ability to inspire hope and for their contribution to the church and community.

Soderquist is a member of Eastside Christian Church in Fullerton, and is known as a pillar of the Southern California community. She was named "Woman of the Year" by the California State Legislature in 1990, by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce in 1993, and by the California State Senate in 1996. In addition to serving on various community, civic and political committees, Soderquist also served for nine years as a valued member of the Board of Trustees for Hope.

CLASSROOM RENOVATION

Churches, Alumni and Friends Bring Excellence to the Classroom

During the summer months of 2005, Hope undertook a major effort to completely renovate 15 of the classrooms on the Fullerton campus. These changes include new ceilings, lighting, paint, carpet, furnishings, and the technology to convert them into “Smart Classrooms.” These beautifully updated classrooms are now completed and in use by grateful students and faculty.

The Classroom Renovation project cost approximately $320,000. Fund raising for the project began in the fall of 2004 and included major gifts in the form of a Matching Grant by the Hugh and Hazel Darling Foundation and a lead gift from the James L. Stamps Foundation. Additionally, Church Development Fund, 17 of our supporting churches, and over 40 individual donors and alumni contributed significantly with special gifts to the renovation project. Hope is planning to host a special day of celebration to dedicate the new classrooms and all donors to the project will be invited.

Richard Davis (BA '93) currently serves as the Director of Prevention Policy for the Homeland Security Council at the White House, and is responsible for counter-terrorism policy development. He previously served the George W. Bush Administration as the Director of the Weapons of Mass Effect Prevention Task Force and Director of the Academe, Policy and Research Senior Advisor Committee at the Department of Homeland Security.

Davis has worked with international security and political organizations such as NATO, OCSE (Organization for Security Cooperation in Europe), and the European Union/Commission to integrate lessons and capabilities into the global architecture of terrorism prevention. Before this, Davis served as the president and co-founder of RAISON, an international NGO committed to building sustainable democracies in marginalized regions of the world through agricultural, educational, economic, and leadership development projects. Prior to his work in the White House and with RAISON, Davis served as a consultant to the City of Milwaukee for an urban renewal project and as Chancellor of Eastside Christian Schools in Fullerton, CA, where he also spent 8 years as a teacher and administrator. After his graduation from Hope, Davis joined the staff and served as the Men's Soccer head coach from 1992 to 1998. As he recounts some of his most inspiring professional experiences, Hope International University is at the forefront.

"(Hope) is a place of big moments," says Davis, "the kind that are powerful, influential and that have true staying power. From the very moment I stepped on campus, my life was impacted by my roommates, fellow students, professors, and the administration. (Hope) created a culture of community and scholarship that challenged me to view the world differently. Every fiber of the University inspires its graduates to become a resource, a change agent, and a cup of water for those without hope.

(Hope) Professors take seriously the daunting task of teaching both inside and outside of the classroom. Their mark of excellence in their profession was their ability to take my mind to places that it had not yet explored. The academic rigor, discipline and character expected during those formative years, serve me well in my current position.

With continued enthusiasm, I reflect on my experience as coach of the Men's Soccer team. After a few years of coaching, the opportunity to represent the University in several different countries in the Caribbean was provided by the administration. This gave me tremendous insight about the fragility of our own country and the great needs of building bridges with other nations. The trust and confidence placed in me by the administration to pursue this international endeavor, most certainly propelled my career and created the foundation for the work of RAISON.

Well over 100 outstanding young men played soccer for the University under my tenure as coach. I am honored to have been able to share life with my players and I am so proud of who they have become today. For them, I have a great deal of respect and attribute much of my personal growth and ability to laugh and seize the day to this serious bunch of rascals. In truth, the management tools that I employ today were learned on the pitch with those young men. Interestingly enough, the psychology of coaching shares a transferable set of skills to that of national security. Military officers have their chessboards and I have my soccer pitch.

Finally, the University gave me something more, a beautiful marriage. My wife Heather (Kelly, BA '94) remains my great inspiration. For all that Hope has given, I am grateful and humbled by more than I could ever ask or imagine."

Davis holds two Masters Degrees and two Baccalaureate Degrees: a Masters in Public Administration from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, a Masters in Education from Azusa Pacific University, and Bachelors degrees in both Finance and Social Science from Pacific Christian College (Hope International University). He was a Senior Fellow at George Washington University and is currently expecting to graduate in May of 2006 from the Naval War College with his third Masters Degree, this one in National Security and Strategic Studies.

Wife Heather Davis is currently leading RAISON with projects in Central Asia and the Caribbean.

May Chan has been working as the Chief Financial Officer for the American Red Cross-Orange County Chapter for nearly seven years. She plans, leads, organizes, and controls all functions in the financial and accounting departments and works closely with the Board and audit and finance committees. Because of her excellent work in the Orange County Chapter, Chan is responsible for overseeing the financial departments in two other chapters.

After obtaining her Bachelor's degree in psychology, Chan began her career by working as an accounting clerk in New York. She then returned to California and continued her studies to become an accountant with a local CPA firm. Chan continued on in various Fortune 100 companies and became a sought after candidate in a renowned human resources search firm. She soared smoothly up the corporate ladder until she took the office of Financial Controller for her Fortune 100 and 200 companies. However, after working twenty years in for-profit organizations, she felt that there was something missing.

Acting upon this instinct led Chan to enter Hope International University's Masters program. She graduated with her MBA in 1998 after which she says "He (God) led me to the American Red Cross, and I was able to submit myself to Him." For Chan, the reward from her work is not merely monetary but is manifested in the form of what she calls "job satisfaction, contentment and life enrichment."

"Hope is a very unique university," says Chan. "The people who teach and work at Hope are followers of Christ and they truly live a Christ centered life and model it to the students. Hope also provides powerful insight into servanthood and teaches and equips students to be servant leaders." Before attending Hope, Chan felt as if she had to prove her worth to her colleagues and, as she says, "joined the rat race to climb up the corporate ladder." However, upon attending Hope she learned how to serve not just her bosses, but also her subordinates like Christ did. She realized that in order to become a true leader, one must become a servant first.

As for Chan's career with the Red Cross, this is of utmost importance. "We are here to reach out, render support (physically), and encourage (emotionally) victims who face calamity. . . I am consumed by this organization's passion to serve the community and not to be served." Chan believes that her years at Hope were essential in providing her with the ability to challenge her thinking and to learn what it is that God wants her to do. "Hope is a student focused university [which] emphasizes both academic and holistic teaching," says Chan.

She was able to expand not only her academic knowledge but also her foundation of faith.

Chan recalls instances that changed her thinking forever. "I remember my first day of classes at Hope when professor Sherwin prayed with us before he commenced the class. I was taken by surprise and impressed by how he honored and included God in his teaching. I also remember my last class at Hope. Dr.

Rabe was telling the class about his three priorities in life. The third one is his career, the second one is his family, and his top priority is God. I thought about my own priorities, they were work, work, and work. In that moment I realized how wrong I was and how I had wandered and drifted to this secular way of thinking. So, I decided to vitally turn my life around and radically rely on God to lead me."

Chan fully believes that God led her to the MBA program at Hope and is grateful for the way it has radically changed her life. Hope provided the catalyst needed for her to experience what she calls "an awakening moment, a turning point in my life, and a renewal of mind with eternal value." With the training she received at Hope, Chan continues to work with the Red Cross to help victims of disaster and to share her love and devotion to the Lord in tangible ways.

Dennis Shelby, a 1976 graduate of Hope, founded the Yuma Rehabilitation Hospital in Yuma, AZ, which operates in partnership with Healthsouth and Yuma Regional Medical Center. Shelby is currently the administrator and CEO. He facilitates and supports his staff at the 40-bed, acute care hospital so that they can more effectively carry out their responsibilities to their patients. However, Shelby's administrative abilities reach far beyond the borders of the hospital. Shelby is Chairman of the Board of Directors for the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce, he serves on the Yuma Regional Medical Center Board of Directors, and has served in his church as a Sunday school teacher, deacon, and elder.

Hope provided a combination of social science and Bible courses that has enabled Shelby to work successfully with struggling patients. He reflects, "I have had to deal with patients and families who have experienced tragedy, death, and loss of health and my training at Hope provided me with the solid foundation upon which to build." Shelby has never forgotten the words of Hope's late president, Dr. Medford Jones, who always said "we are all ministers no matter what occupation we have selected," and continually claims this in his own life.

"Professors [at Hope] who made a profound impact on me were Gary Tiffin, Park Netting, Bob Pavelsky, John Rowe, and Paul McReynolds." Coming from a small high school, the prospects of facing a large university was somewhat daunting for Shelby. However, because of Hope's small environment, professors are able to focus their attention on a closer relationship with students, thus fostering a more effective learning atmosphere. Shelby is confident that because of this prime educational setting, he was better prepared to face the rigorous academia of graduate school and to obtain his Masters of Social Work. Shelby also maintains contact with lifelong friends from Hope including Arvel Eicher (BA '76), John Sandusky (BA '76), Ed Carter (BA '77), and Hope's own Vice President of Academic Affairs and current Dean of Pacific Christian College, Steve Edgington (BA '77). "I have been blessed by reconnecting with past classmates... and look forward to future reunions."

Shelby and his wife Judy now live in Yuma, Arizona. All members of his immediate family work in the healthcare and/or human services fields, which they strongly believe are not just occupations but continuing ministry as well. Judy works as a registered nurse in medical oncology. Their daughter Allison, who graduated from Hope in 2003, now works as the assistant program director for New Life Ranch in Oklahoma, and daughter Lindsay is a therapy technician at Healthsouth Rehabilitation Hospital in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

KNOWN BY THE COMPANY WE KEEP

Julie Kuns, (BA '81) is currently serving as the Regional Vice President for Nordstrom in Orange County and has been associated with the company for the past 22 years. She is responsible for the results and service experience in the Orange County area and Inland Empire Stores. After graduating from Hope in 1981, Kuns taught elementary school in Camarillo, CA for two years. Her change of career came after she ran into an old college friend, Steve Hunter (BA '81), at Nordstrom. He encouraged her to apply for a job at the store and she accepted the invitation.

Kuns began as a sales associate in the Woodland Hills store and worked her way up to a department manager position within a year. After another two years as department manager, Kuns was promoted again into the buying office. This promotion was of particular importance to her as it brought a wealth of new knowledge and experience. Not only was Kuns able to gain field experience as a buyer in New York, but she also had the opportunity to work in Europe as well. Four years later, Kuns was promoted yet again to the position of store manager. Her first assignment as a store manager was to open the Nordstrom in Santa Barbara. Eventually, her career brought her back to the Orange County area where she became the manager of the South Coast Plaza store. After four years in this location, she was promoted again to the Regional position where she has been serving for over six years.

When asked how Hope prepared her for her career, Kuns says that the experience she gained while attending college was invaluable and prepared her for what she deals with in her field today. Hope offered many opportunities for her to explore her leadership abilities, including serving on campus as a Residence Assistant as well as singing and touring with fellow students in a musical outreach group. One of her most memorable professors was Gary Tiffin, who loved to challenge his students to explore and to think outside of the box. Kuns had the unique opportunity to travel to Europe with Tiffin and several other students, thus gaining invaluable experience that has helped her throughout life and in her career today.

Kuns believes that because of Hope's emphasis on servant-leadership, these opportunities gave her the experience she needed to launch into the business world and was prepared to fit right into the Nordstrom mentality. "Nordstrom is a company that often speaks of 'servant leadership' and truly believes that it is the role of each leader to support and serve the efforts of the front line employees," says Kuns. "It is humbling to see the impact you have as a leader. I feel privileged to support my team and create an environment that is fair and ethical."

One of the ways to leave a meaningful legacy in the field of Christian higher education is to include Hope International University in your Living Trust or Will. You can choose to give a designated amount, give a percentage of your estate, or name the University to receive a specific property, stock, or insurance policy. By including Hope on your list of beneficiaries, you provide a gift that benefits generations to come.

Your estate gift can be designated for an area that is of special interest to you, such as scholarships for Church Ministry students, for children of missionaries or any of Hope's academic programs.

Hope works closely with Financial Planning Ministry to provide excellent service and can assist you in the preparation of your Living Trust, your Last Will and Testament and your Health Care documents. For additional information or assistance, contact Leroy Fulton, Senior Advancement Officer at 714-879-3901 x2210 or email at lfulton@hiu.edu.
